

Supplementary Figure 3. Length distribution of shared IBD tracts between the two individuals in each population. Distributions of shared IBD tracts which were computed using the original and the re-phased haplotypes were displayed separately. Lengths of the shared IBDs are different by populations, but consistently increased in the re-phased haplotypes across all.