

The tree height for the A. insuavis model is large, thus the estimated substitution rate might be too low