

Supplementary Figure 3. Copy number estimates are similar when only using the rRNA coding region. Each cell represents the deviation of the calculated modal rDNA copy number from 20 for each coverage level and sliding window size combination. (A) uses coverage information from the whole rDNA repeat, while (B) only uses the information from the rRNA coding region. The heatmap scale used is indicated and deviations are rounded to the nearest integer.